

Patrick McMullan debuts exhibit at Printing House: PHOTOS

January 15, 2014

Comments are off

From left: Developer Myles Horn, designer Scott Sanders and photographer Patrick McMullan (Credit: Patrick McMullan)

A large crowd of design and art aficionados gathered at the Printing House condos last night for a photo exhibit mounted by famed A-list photographer Patrick McMullan. Dubbed “The West Village Through the Lens of Patrick McMullan” (appropriate for the building’s Hudson Street location), the exhibit features 10 never-before-seen photographs taken by McMullan between the late 1970s through today. All photos, which are now on display inside the condo’s sales office, are for sale with prices set at $3,500 or $5,000 per print.

As opposed to the photographer’s red carpet and out-on-the-town work, these photos show a different side of his repertoire. Selections include a black and white print of the 8th Street and Fifth Avenue intersection, steam clouding a street traffic light, even a shot of legendary pop artist Andy Warhol and friends en route to a birthday party.

“I always enjoy showing things I’ve done that are unexpected,” McMullan told LLNYC.

The evening also served to debut a new model unit inside the building—a three-bedroom, two-bathroom spread that’s listed for $4.75 million. It was outfitted by designer Scott Sanders, and each item inside the unit is also for sale. The look of the home has a modern meets antique flair, which Sanders said he had fun assembling.

“It’s always nice to hear people talk about your work,” he said.

See photos from the event below. — Zachary Kussin

Scott Sanders and Mera Rubell (Credit: Patrick McMullan)

Rio Hamilton and Ally Coulter (Credit: Patrick McMullan)

Myles Horn, Matt Muller, Natassa de Leon and Lynne Brown (Credit: Patrick McMullan)

Montgomery Frazier, Jane Pontarelli, Susan Kirschbaum and Ben Mindich (Credit: Patrick McMullan)

Milly de Cabrol and Harriet Weintraub (Credit: Patrick McMullan)

Kara Council and Paul Turcotte (Credit: Patrick McMullan)

Jenna Greenbaum, Morgan Levitt, Doug Brown and Isabel Hall (Credit: Patrick McMullan)

Jack Lynch and Amy Hoadley (Credit: Patrick McMullan)

Fran and Jerry Moss (Credit: Patrick McMullan)

Select photos from Patrick McMullan's exhibit (Credit: Patrick McMullan)

Ellen Toller, Scott Sanders and Carly Sullivan (Credit: Patrick McMullan)

Chloe Urban, Patrick McMullan and Kara Council (Credit: Patrick McMullan)